Inter-Tel Releases Second Quarter '06 Financial Results

Inter-Tel released its Q2 results in July and once again shows a profit. For the quarter ending June 2006, Inter-Tel sold $ 115,925,000—an increase over 1st quarter results, and as compared to the same quarter in 2005.

Inter-Tel will showcase its two latest IP communications systems at the VoiceCon Fall 2006 Conference, August 21-24, at the Moscone Center in San Francisco. The company will display its soon-to-be-released Inter-Tel 7000, an enterprise-scale, standards-based multimedia communications platform, and the Inter-Tel 5600, an IP-centric system.

Get the Right Networking Design for your Business

Networking Functionality—Choose the Right Solution

Considering a network? Lots of people are today—especially with lower network prices, more options for broadband, upgrades in client infrastructures enabling higher quality connectivity, and with increased demand for integration among many fronts. Some potential “features” that may (or may not) be required in your network.

Coordinated Dialing: Set up one extension numbering plan across all locations.

Toll Bypass: Make local calls using trunk lines at your remote facility.

Caller ID Across Network: See, track, report on calls based on Caller ID.

Centralized Voice Mail: Share 1 system, have message waiting across network. Saves $$ on maintenance costs!

DSS/BLF: Reach staff in other locations with a single button, have visual access to their active status (busy, idle).

DID Across Network: Have your phone number find you wherever you are in the network.

System Resiliency: Have failover options across the network to keep key staff operational even if you lose power, CPU, etc. locally.

There are plenty of other options. Consult with your ICS rep to discuss your best alternatives and get the network you require.

Cool, New Websites Catching Fire, Lots of Visitors

Digg is a user driven social content website (blog). Users on digg submit content, other digg users read your submission and digg what they like best. If your story receives enough diggs, it is promoted to the front page for the millions of digg visitors to see.

Flickr is a site that lets you securely and privately share photos from the web, mobile devices, from home. And they push them out in as many ways as possible: on the Flickr website, in RSS feeds, by email, by posting to outside – whatever. And they also enable new ways of organizing by giving your friends, family, and other contacts permission to organize your photos - not just to add comments, but also notes and tags.

Simply Hired is a vertical search engine company based in Silicon Valley, expected to become the largest online database of jobs on the planet

Jigsaw is a Business Contact Marketplace, where members get business contact information. Members get two contacts back for every good business contact they add to Jigsaw. Contacts have complete information including business e-mail address and phone number. The contact information allows sales professionals to contact prospects DIRECTLY, and bypass gatekeepers.
